Description

Coreopsis 'Tequila Sunrise' is a vigorous grower, blooming through summer with very attractive, yellow blossoms and a striking maroon center and prized for its variegated green and cream foliage. Cream variegated areas acquire red tints in fall. Plants may spread by rhizomes. Clumps may be divided in spring. Bloom times can be extended if spent flowers are regularly deadheaded. It has excellent disease and drought resistance. Coreopsis species support over 40 different species of insects including some predatory insects that are essential for a garden's ecosystem. They are good in borders, sidewalk edgings, naturalized areas, wild gardens, cottage gardens and patio containers. Good plant for areas with poor, dry soils.
